

Phase 1 Peer Review Worksheet

REVIEWER'S NAME: Shaoqin Li
(The person filling out this worksheet)

WRITER'S NAME: Jia Yi Karen Li
(The person who wrote the essay)

Instructions: For each of the prompts that follow, please write a detailed response, offering specific examples of strengths and specific suggestions for improvement. While each of your four responses should aim to be ~100 words, take all the space you need.

1. What are the most notable strengths of this essay? What parts were strong or particularly vivid, memorable, and/or effective? What writing strategies did you notice that worked well?

FEEDBACK: The structure and the words that Karen used are the most notable strengths of this essay. The part where she talk about the Europe education system was memorable. I notice she used illusion that makes me feel her writing better.

2. How effectively does the language and literacy narrative provide specific details and 1-2 concrete examples of the writer's language/literacy experiences? How effectively does the language and literacy narrative attend to description to appeal to audiences?

FEEDBACK: The writer is very effective in using a simple sentence to express sufficient information. In her writing, she use a sentence to clearly describe the difference between Europe and American education systems.

3. How effectively does the narrative highlight some central idea about a larger social significance? That is, how well does the narrative explicitly comment on the larger implications of the narrative, making connections to national trends or to the writer's life, family, generation, gender, race, culture, linguistic background, and/or geographic location?

FEEDBACK: In her writing, she was using her experience to study abroad in Germany as a exchange student to expand her idea about how good Europe education system on language compared to the U.S.

4. What areas could still be worked on to further improve this essay? Be sure to provide specific examples and suggestions.

FEEDBACK: I think maybe she can add some dialouge to make readers more into her writing.
